BOARD APPROVES PINEAPPLE LEASE

At the meeting of the land board that was held yesterday afternoon, in the office of the Trent Trust Company, the leasing of four hundred acres of pineapple land to a cannery company was approved of.

The lease was agreed to on the condition that the cannery company plant fifty acres in pineapples the first year, fifty more in the second year, and have two hundred acres under cultivation by the third year. The company is also to have a cannery in operation within two years from the taking up of the land. The cannery must be able to handle the product of five hundred acres.

Governor Frear was at the meeting, and explained that plans were on foot to open up nearly four thousand acres of pineapple lands in the same district, and that a couple hundred homesteaders could be settled there. Twenty acre lots were probably to be leased, and settlers could take more lots if they thought they could handle them.

The Governor also stated that for the valuable lands near Hilo, out of thirty applicants for lots, twenty-eight were office holders. Police officers and county supervisors were in the majority.

In reply to a question from Trent, the Governor said that the twenty-eight must be Republicans as they were in office.

THREE REPUBLICAN CLUBS

WIALEE SCHOOL MAKING PROGRESS

Down at the Waialea Industrial School there is much work being accomplished that will help out when the big contract is awarded for the construction of the new $30,000 building. The boys have immense piles of crushed rock and sand ready for use, and more is being prepared every day.

Superintendent Tucker was in town yesterday, and he reported that everything is running smoothly at the school. When the work on the new building starts there will be plenty of material ready.

The appropriation of $30,000 is not all available at once, so the money that can be obtained will be devoted to the erection of a dormitory, kitchen and pantry. Later on the engine room, laundry and other buildings will be erected.

PHILANTHROPY CONFERENCE.

The public generally is invited to attend the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, at which time several addresses will be made on the subject of "Co-Operative Philanthropy." J. A. Rath, director of the Palama Settlement, and Rev. Doremus Scudder are to be the principal speakers. The matter is one which has aroused a good deal of interest of late in this city, and it was brought to the attention of the Chamber of Commerce by Governor Frear, with the result that tomorrow's meeting will be devoted largely to the subject.

VISITOR SIZES UP HONOLULU

James Fitzmaurice, special correspondent of the London Times, read a paper on "Obvious Honolulu" at the opera house last night, less than a hundred people being present.

The speaker was introduced by Governor Frear.

He started by reference to a criticism of his expressed view on Australia which appeared in a letter published in the Advertiser, signed "Kangaroo."

The lecturer stated that he had spent seven years in Australia and knew whereof he spoke. Once an English writer had said some unpretty but truthful things about Australia and Australians, and since then every writer or speaker on things Australian had been subjected to criticism.

Speaking of the writer of the letter he took occasion to remark that the kangaroo was famous for one thing and that wasn't its head.

The reading, which occupied about an hour, was on Fitzmaurice's first impressions of his first day in Honolulu. He said that it was the first of four papers which were now on their way to London for publication in "The Thunderer."

His letter was much the same as is that of the average tourist who forwards his impressions of Honolulu to his home paper.

Fitzmaurice throughout his reading starred a local hotel and also paid his compliments to a local express company.

He related how he had been "stung" by the hackdrivers, chauffeurs (pronounced like gopher), and the restaurateurs, the latter of which charged him "four and twopenny" for a dinner.

There were three things which he couldn't find in Honolulu: a good cigar, a good cup of tea and a woman who didn't wear black suede shoes.

The hotels of Honolulu he thought were way above the average, particularly the one at which he was staying. That was a very paragon of a hotel and he had specially mentioned it by name in his article which would shortly be published in the London Times.

He noticed that the people here ran too much to black extremities, such as abominations as soft black felt hats and black suede shoes for instance. At home no one but clodhoppers wore black felt hats and then for purposes of economy. He really couldn't understand a cultured community wearing such things.

The reader liked the local verandas. In Australia the people didn't half appreciate a veranda and the comfort to be derived therefrom. They used them there as repositories for broken-down chairs and as a landing place for many dogs.

He thought that if a man paid a chauffeur a twentieth part of what was demanded he would be treating the auto man right.

Incidentally Fitzmaurice stated that he had been "stung" by a shirtmaker in Honolulu who had charged him three different prices for as many shirts.

The customs officers of Honolulu are, according to Fitzmaurice, all right and don't use retaliatory measures with travelers unless annoyed.

The streets of Honolulu impressed the lecturer as being some bad and none good.

Waikiki beach he found very disappointing. He had expected to see a thousand or more bathers disporting in the surf but was grievously disappointed. If the bathing is so good, he remarked, why don't the local people patronize it?

The Hawaiian music he found to be the real thing and at a dinner concert at the Young he heard a singer whom, he felt sure, would be appreciated at Garden.

What was most wanted here, said Fitzmaurice, was something for the tourist to do when he got here. He didn't make any suggestions along this line, however.

W. R. Castle graced the platform during the reading.

TESTING MANOA FIRE HYDRANTS

Tenders for the construction of the Queen street bulkhead wharf will be opened on April 17, in the office of the superintendent of public works. The work is an important one and it is thought that there will be many tenders for the contract.

Out at Manoa Valley the fire hydrants lately installed by the water department are being tested out and tomorrow the fire department will see how the system works.

The work of laying the water main along King street is progressing well, according to the superintendent of public works, the job is being rushed as much as possible.

TAX ASSESSORS HARD AT WORK

This morning at nine o'clock the Board of Equalization met again and, although C. T. Wilder had to attend court, the other assessors and Treasurer Conkling held a session.

The matter of adjusting the assessments of the different islands has been started, and what the board decides on will be carried out. There will be no more running to the treasurer to have anything altered, for the assessments as set by the board will stand.

All values shall be settled by the board of equalization, and shall stand unless overruled by the tax appeal board. Treasurer Conkling said this morning that he thought the extra twenty-five million dollars of assessments will be made.

At the afternoon session of the board of equalization the island of Kauai was finished, as far as the assessments of the big concerns of that island go. Maui will be taken up later this afternoon, and tomorrow it is planned to tackle Oahu and Hawaii.

The assessments of the islands are being checked first, and later on the equalization matter will be taken up. It is thought that by Saturday next the figures in relation to the equalization will be given out. That there will be some surprises goes without saying. Treasurer Conkling is chairman of the meeting.

JUDAS ISCARIOT

we sell Christ that there was not in Judas' sin.

"Judas sold his Christ for one hundred and eighty dollars, we are selling Him for fun. Many a man in Honolulu today is selling Jesus and his salvation for mere physical enjoyment—for a little society.

"Every man who is not in the cycle of Jesus is fixing a price to sell his Christ. If you are not a Christian you are selling Christ out of your life. Christ holds in his hands wonderful transforming power and he will transform you—if you will let him.

"He is your dearest personal friend. It is the divine possibility that makes a friend lovable and the more you are able to get Christ into your nature, you will acquire this friend-making power. If you have sold your Maker—buy him back."

This evening's sermon will be "Has the gospel run out?" On account of the enormous crowds that have besieged the doors of the Empire theater the last two nights, the doors will be opened at 7:15 and the service will commence as soon as all of the seats have been occupied. This evening Mr. Butler will sing two of his best solos, "Hear Me," and "He Will Hold Me Fast."

Bishop Restarick will address the Boys' meeting Sunday afternoon at 2:30 and all boys from English-speaking homes have been requested to attend. Mr. Butler will prepare a special musical program for the youth.

At 4 o'clock Clive Davies will address a monster mass-meeting for men at the Empire theater. Mr. Butler will sing at this meeting, which is part of the Christian Extension Movement.

Tonight's Program.
